WHAT CAUSES HEARING LOSS

- Excessive noise exposure is the leading cause of hearing loss in the United States in adults
- Ototoxic drugs can cause hearing loss, tinnitus or balance disorders. There are over 200 known medications including: NSAIDS, antibiotics, diuretics, some cardiac medicine, and more.
- Aging is also a cause of hearing loss. Over time, our ears change and the tiny hair cells that help us hear become damaged and cannot re-grow.
- Various illnesses and diseases can be associated with hearing loss. Some include Meningitis, Heart Disease, Diabetes, Ménière’s disease and Alzheimer’s, among others.
- Other factors can lead to a higher risk of hearing loss as well, such as obesity, birth defects, head injuries, family history, smoking, and more

HOW CAN I PREVENT HEARING LOSS

- Wear hearing protection and limit the time you’re exposed to noise
- Turn down the volume – keep music and TV volume at 50% or less
- Maintain a healthy lifestyle to avoid conditions such as high blood pressure and diabetes which contribute to hearing loss
- Avoid ototoxic medications – talk to your healthcare professional when drugs are prescribed

WHEN SHOULD I GET MY HEARING CHECKED

Hearing loss can come on gradually. You may not even notice it’s happening. As a rule of thumb, if your hearing test reports your hearing is OK, stick to once every three to five years. You should test your hearing annually if you are 55 or older or are experiencing any of the following:

- Consistent exposure to loud noises
- Difficulty understanding in noisy environments or in groups
- Hearing mumbling or feeling as though people are not speaking clearly
- Ringing in your ears

DO I REALLY NEED HEARING AIDS?

My hearing isn’t THAT bad...

Even mild hearing loss can negatively affect key areas of your life, including: mental health, physical health and income. Additionally, untreated hearing loss is usually more noticeable to other people than the actual hearing aids.

ARE HEARING AIDS AFFORDABLE?

Hearing aids are an investment, but don’t let the price tag scare you away from getting the treatment you deserve. A few ways to find cost savings while purchasing hearing aids, including:
